Top Chefs and Food Critics gather for Too Many Critics 2015

Stars of London's Gastronomy Scene Raise Thousands for Action Against Hunger

They're used to dishing out opinions on food, but on 28th June 2015 the tables were turned as London's top critics downed pens and donned aprons to impress some of London's finest chefs at Action Against Hunger's Too Many Critics 2015.

This year the critics, who included Bill Knott, Charles Campion, Lisa Markwell, Lucas Hollweg and Adam Hyman were put through their paces preparing a meal at Merchants Tavern under Michelin starred chef Angela Hartnett's strict direction!.

Some of the biggest names in the British gastronomy scene were in attendance to test the critics' mettle. Among them Bruno Loubet, Neil Rankin, Nieves Barragán Mohacho, Cyrus Todiwala, José Pizarro and Pascal Aussignac to name but a few.

A Champagne Taittinger reception set the tone for the evening and raised over £30,000 towards Action Against Hunger's impressive work.
